

Zones of Regulation THIS WEEK'S LEARNING RED ZONE

This week in assembly, we explored the Red Zone – when our feelings become really BIG! We talked about emotions such as anger, frustration, overjoyed and feeling furious, and how sometimes these feelings can make it difficult to think clearly or make good choices. I shared a story about two children playing basketball. When one child accidentally knocked into another, the child who fell became very angry and wanted to push his friend back. We stopped the story and talked about what was happening in his body, why he was feeling so angry and, most importantly, what he could choose to do next.

Our big message was that all feelings are okay, but not all behaviours are okay. It is perfectly normal to feel angry, but we still have a responsibility to treat others with respect. We explored how we can recognise the warning signs in our bodies – perhaps a racing heart, a hot face, clenched fists or feeling like we might explode! We also talked about some practical strategies that can help us when we are in the Red Zone:

- STOP, PAUSE and CHOOSE – give yourself a moment before reacting.
- Take slow, deep breaths – breathe in gently and slowly breathe out.
- Count slowly to ten – give your brain time to catch up with your feelings.
- Move away from the situation – find a quiet, safe space where you can begin to feel calmer.
- Relax your body – unclench your fists, drop your shoulders and release some of that tension.
- Talk to a trusted adult – sometimes our feelings are simply too big to manage on our own, and that is absolutely okay!

We reminded the children that these strategies might not make the anger disappear immediately, and that's okay too! We don't have to feel calm before we can make a safe and respectful choice.

At Downsview, our Golden Rule is Respect, and sometimes the biggest test of respect is how we respond when things don't go our way!

This week's 'Be the Noticer' challenge:

Can you notice the moment before you react? When something makes you cross, frustrated or angry, try to STOP, PAUSE and CHOOSE what to do next.

Perhaps you could talk about this at home too. What does anger feel like in your body?

Which calming strategy works best for you? Remember, different strategies work for different people!

We don't always get to choose how we feel, but we can learn to choose how we respond. ❤️

National School
Dog Alliance

JOEY GOES NATIONAL!

We are incredibly proud to share that our very own Joey has been featured by the National School Dog Alliance!

The article, From George to Joey: The Journey of a School Dog, shares the story of how our school dog journey began nearly 20 years ago with George and how Joey has continued that legacy here at Downsview.

With over 10,000 hours spent in school and more than 1,200 children supported, Joey has become so much more than our school dog. He is a friend, a listener, a source of comfort and, quite often, the reason a child finds the courage to take that next step.

The article reflects on the wonderful impact dogs can have on children's wellbeing, confidence, behaviour and sense of belonging. It also shares the enormous responsibility that comes with having a school dog and why Joey's own happiness and wellbeing must always come first.

What makes this recognition particularly special is that Joey's story is really our children's story. Every cuddle, every walk, every book read together and every quiet moment has helped shape the journey.

We are so proud to be able to share our experiences with other schools across the country.

Joey may only have four paws, but the footprints he leaves on our school community are enormous! 🐾❤️

You can read the full article here: From George to Joey: The Journey of a School Dog. LINK

🐾 Introducing Joey's New Book!

I am also delighted to officially launch the latest book in Joey's School Journey series, Joey Learns to be a Big Brother!

Inspired by real experiences and, of course, Joey himself, this story explores change, uncertainty, love and belonging. It also includes a special tribute to George, the original school dog, who taught Joey so much about kindness, patience and helping others feel safe.

At its heart is a simple but powerful message: love does not get smaller when someone new arrives. It grows.

I hope the story will encourage lots of lovely conversations at home, whether your child is preparing for a new sibling, experiencing a change or simply learning to understand their feelings.

Perhaps this weekend you could ask your child what they remember about Emily and Joey, and what helped them when they were feeling worried.

After all, learning to understand our feelings is an important part of growing up, and sometimes all we need is someone to listen, a little reassurance and, if we are lucky, a cuddle from Joey! 🐾❤️

Germany pledged to quit fossil fuels by 2045

In a significant policy shift, the German government has committed to phasing out fossil fuels by 2045.

On Wednesday, it published a roadmap to “transition away” from coal, oil and gas. Plans include ramping up renewables, accelerating the rollout of electric vehicles and cutting methane emissions by 30% – in accordance with the global methane pledge agreed at Cop26.

It's likely to be a bumpy road. Amid fierce debate about the country's green policies, many politicians want to see greater flexibility on vehicle emissions to help struggling German car manufacturers.

Targets are one thing, of course, meeting them is another. According to the Climate Action Tracker, Germany is already off track to meet its existing obligations.

Still, its latest intervention comes amid a wider shift in rhetoric around fossil fuels. While obstructive petrostates blocked any mention of phasing them out in the final text at last year's Cop30 climate conference, some nations have broke rank to establish their own exit strategy.

Should age decide what we're allowed to do?

Eleven-year-old Bodhana Sivanandan from London has become the youngest person ever to earn the woman grandmaster title in chess. She achieved this while playing for England at an international competition in Uzbekistan. Bodhana said she was happy with her achievement and wanted to keep making history.

Things to talk about at home...

- How do you think adults might feel competing against someone much younger than them?
- What could you teach someone older than you?
- Should age decide what we're allowed to do?
- When might an age limit be fair?

Our School Joins JUST ONE TREE

Day to Make a Difference

At this critical time for our planet, tree planting has never been more important. This Friday, our school is taking part in JUST ONE TREE Day, joining children, parents, and teachers worldwide in a global movement for change.

To show our support, we encouraged everyone to:

- Wear something green to school.
- Attend a special assembly.
- Donate just £1 to plant a tree.

Your contribution will help remove CO₂ from the atmosphere and support reforestation projects in areas severely affected by deforestation, such as Kenya, Madagascar, Mozambique, and Brazil. These projects not only combat climate change but also create sustainable livelihoods for local communities by providing training, agricultural education, and income opportunities.

JUST ONE Tree, an official partner in the UN Decade on Ecosystem Restoration, makes it simple for everyone to take collective action. With just £1, you can plant one tree—a small step with a big impact.

We can't wait to see how many trees we'll plant together!

Thank you for your cooperation and commitment to making a difference

DID YOU KNOW...?

Downsview needs around 39 trees a year just to supply the paper we use!

We recycle all our paper and are committed to reducing our overall use. This year, we're planting 60 trees on school grounds to give back to the environment.

Meet Sara – Our Year 5 Goldfinch Storyteller!

Sara in Year 5 Goldfinch has been writing some truly remarkable and creative stories – and bringing them to Spanish lessons to share with the class. What makes this especially impressive?

They're all written in Spanish!

Using Google Translate as a guide, Sara's stories read naturally and fluently. But her talent doesn't stop at the page: she also crafted a paper dragon – the main character of her latest story – which you can see in the picture.

Sara has a wonderfully vivid imagination and a real confidence to share her work with others. It's a joy to have a student in our school who can write, translate, and create all at once – well done, Sara!

Aliabbas- Max and the Beast

Y5 WRITING

Max and the beast

The darkness shot out of the sky, pouncing in the background like a zooming rocket. A cold mist of wind attacked the air and the gloom appeared out of the dark abyss. Max's hands shook as a gust of fear sped into him. His heart pounded, his legs trembled and he knew something was wrong. Was someone watching him?

Like something hit the sky, a gloom of light glowed in the direction of a figure stamping to Max. Max shook his head determined to know what it was. There in front of him, was a monster looking over him. It stood, breathed deeply sniffing him hard. Two amber eyes fixed themselves on Max and Max had realised, the beast would not give up on catching him.

As quick as a flash, Max got a move on. There was no time to waste. Max's heart pounded like a gigantic metal drum. His skin was as cold as ice: fear ran across his body. He ran to the big trees, and hid behind one. As Max was hiding, he heard the beast come closer. "Run as far as you want." "I'll get you in the end." Footsteps marched towards him as danger awaited. Max was in trouble.

A blazing light hit the sky like lightning: the darkness of the sky shook as the wind blew harder and harder. Max touched his heart. Suddenly, Max felt dizzy. Outside, Max's hands trembled, inside, his legs ached with fear and caution. When will this ever end?

Despite to survive from the terrifying torture, Max clenched onto the gate. He sprinted to the entrance but noticed his target was locked. His heart flipped. A cool gust of wind took his breath away. He bolted in the other direction.

River and the Wall - Evelyn

River and the wall

As night drew in, River started to feel grooked out. She slowly crept out of her hiding place like prey trying to escape. River ran to a dark hiding space and crouched down very quiet. The fog had lowered, River felt a cool breeze run down the back of her neck, goose bumps prickled her arms. The trees were swaying as just as the wings on a bird flap. Her pupils dilated as she thought of something, was she being followed?!

In the darkness, River noticed two blood shot eyes staring back at her, they stayed like that for a really long time. Finally, the figure closed its eyes, laid down and jumped back up again. Inside River felt terrified, outside she looked shocked, worried and frightened. River inhaled deeply trying to stay calm. Later the figure closed its eyes and fell asleep. However River knew that this was only the beginning! Would it come back?!

Unable to cope with it any longer, River ran faster than she had ever run before, she tried to find a hiding place but she just couldn't. How was she going to out run the beast? Finally she came to something hard she felt around it was a wall. River looked behind her... the beast was approaching. What was she going to do?...

In the middle of the night, River woke up. She rolled over and tried to get back to sleep but she couldn't. She kept thinking about what had happened that evening. Moments later, she stood up and went for a walk. After a while, River heard something behind her, it was the beast! River started to run, she dived into a bush and crouched very quiet. Was the figure still following her? Inside River felt hopeless, worried and unhappy. Outside River felt scared and felt a wave of goose bumps prickled across her body like a tsunami of needles. What was she going to do?!

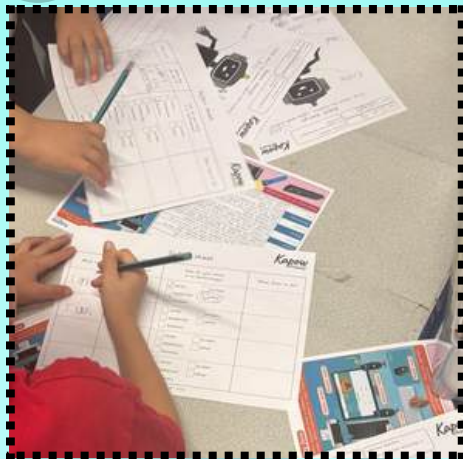

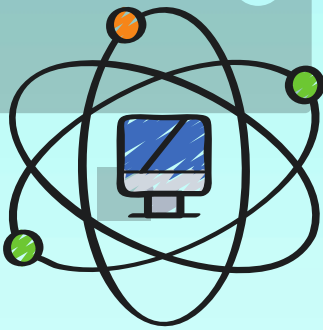

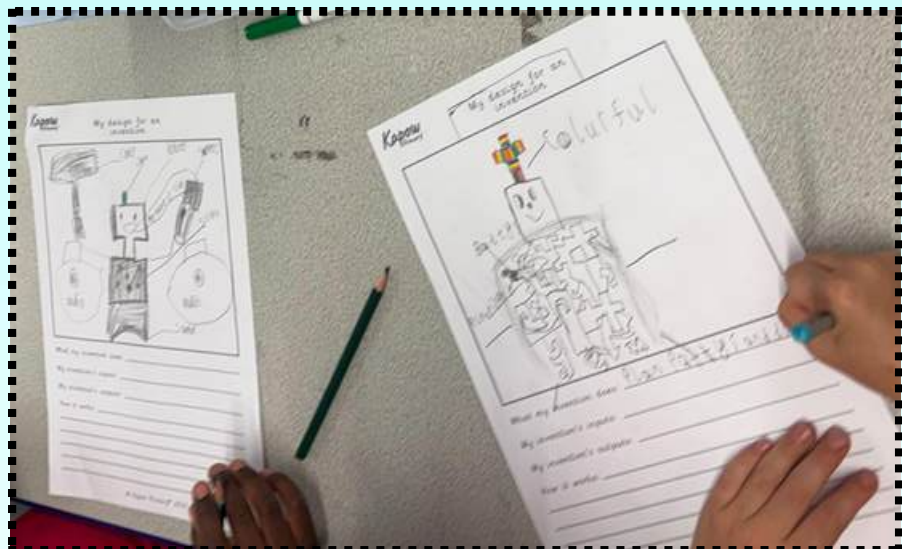

An ominous figure emerged out of the darkness. River's eyes dilated as she tried to stay quiet in the bush, a little while later River realised what kind of bush she was in. It was a thorn bush! She kept out of the bush and yelled. The beast instantly turned around and started running towards her. River started to run the beast yelled, "you can run but you can't hide." The beast faunted. Was she ever going to escape?!

Computing Y2

For Year 2 computing day, the children were looking at computers. They looked at each of the parts a computer had, what hardware computers use and how not all computers are the same. They went on a technology hunt to find what tech was in the room and even designed their own inventions!

The children also explored how computers follow instructions to complete a task. The children explored this through role playing as a shop with some children as the shoppers giving information and the rest working to take what they needed and complete the task like a computer does. The children really enjoyed looking into the computing behind these every day tasks!

Y4

This week, Year 4 had Computing Day where we used the Scratch programme to code a Maths Quiz. We worked together in pairs to use the blocks and create a code that ran smoothly.

We learnt how to use a variable in our code and made some brilliant quizzes that we then swapped and completed.

It was quite a tricky task, but we worked as a team and used resilience to get the job done!
